

Youth Director Profile

The individual who will excel in this role will be:

CALLED

The individual should have a strong calling to vocational ministry and leadership in the local church, which has been confirmed by a local church.

PEOPLE-ORIENTED

The individual should be a person who loves and enjoys people; can relate to a different type of people in a genuine way

HUMBLE

The individual will not see themselves as greater than they are, but neither do they discount their talents and contributions.

A LEARNER

The individual will be a continual learner with a teachable spirit. The individual should be growing in understanding God's Word and the culture.

MATURE

The individual will demonstrate a level of spiritual and relational maturity, which will be evident in their ability to build healthy relationships with parents, leaders, and students.

AN ENGAGING AND STRONG COMMUNICATOR

The individual should be able to communicate well with Middle School and High School students, as well as parents and leaders.

A GROWING STUDENT OF SCRIPTURE

The individual should know the scripture and have the ability to apply the Bible well. The individual should bring the Word of God to bear on the challenging cultural issues students and parents are trying to navigate.

A SERVANT LEADER

The individual should reflect Jesus as one who seeks to serve rather than be served.

PASSIONATE FOR DISCIPLE-MAKING

The individual will see evangelism and discipleship as inseparable components in the disciple-making process. The individual should be passionate about continually introducing students to Jesus for the first time and seeing students grow in their relationship with Jesus as they learn to live and love like Jesus. Additionally, the individual will infuse this same passion in students and leaders.
